

Romania-Trip,

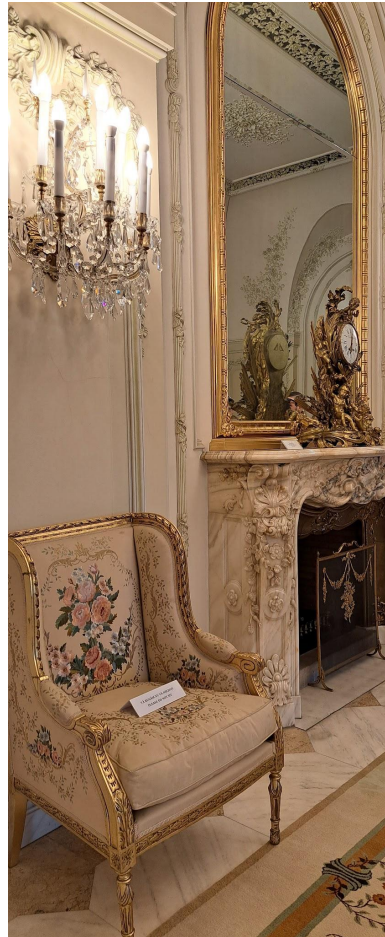

not me, the one who fell in love with Romanian people. From the first meeting, they welcomed us with a big smile on their faces. I arrived there with some struggles but it was worth it. I never thought that I'll miss Romania that fast, after making some kind friends there with a hope that one day I'll meet them again. I'm thankful because of everything I learned there. Hope that the family that took care of me, those friends that I made and even those who I could not make them my friends, hope they all are healthy and having nice days there in their country.

The old and special National Museum of the
"Dimitri Gusti" Villag

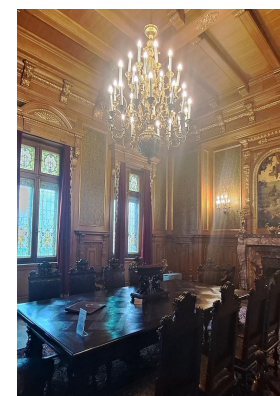

I was amazed by what I saw there. I was curious before getting inside there, but I've got more curious after seeing those artists on those houses' walls, old signs that only believers would understand. It was weird and Intriguing at the same time. There was a lake inside the museum where you could sit in front of it to relax.

Being in this classic Palace was not only to look around but also to give myself
the chance to get some inspiration
from this place.

I think no European country has such a lot of churches like Romania. You will find such special and unique styles of churches in every neighborhood in Romania, that if you just take a look at the architecture from outside, it will directly attract you to go inside the church. Romanians are believers so for them it is pretty peaceful having such churches everywhere.

these are only random and normal pictures for the one who hadn't the chance to live this experience, but these are more than pictures. These are memories. There are stories behind these unforgettable moments. The first meeting, greeting, dinner, gift, etc.
